This year we will be using Jesus "I Am" statements from the Gospel of John. Worship services will follow a 5:00 simple supper. We will be using material prepared by a Luther Seminary preaching professor, Dr. Caroline Lewis. Note the summary below:

Working Preacher's Lenten Series this year focuses on the "I AM" statements in the Gospel of John for the sake of intentional reflection on and proclamation of God becoming flesh.

Let me say that again -- God becoming flesh. The cross is many things; but first, it is the death of God. Let that sink in.

The "I AM" statements are more than just a novelty of the Fourth Gospel -- they reveal, in all fullness (John 1:16), the identity of Jesus. "Obviously," you might be thinking.

But Lent is the season to remember one very important thing about what it means to be a Christian: that when Jesus goes to the cross, there goes God.

Jesus as this one-and-only God, this unique God (John 1:18) is the distinctive claim of Christianity. Yet in today's world what's said and believed about Jesus has the tendency to divide Jesus' humanity from Jesus' divinity. Our Christologies seem comfortable with choosing one or the other, depending on whom we need Jesus to be in a certain time or place -- or, for a certain purpose.

The Gospel of John reminds us -- which, during Lent, is an especially important thing to remember -- that to believe in Jesus is to hold the fullness of Jesus' humanity and Jesus' divinity together.

"What difference does this make?" you might be asking. Well, when we collapse Jesus' humanity into Jesus' divinity, it gets harder to imagine the purpose and pathos of the cross. After all, if that was God nailed to a tree, to what extent was that true suffering? And when we minimize Jesus' divinity, it becomes easy to reduce Jesus to an above-average teacher, miracle worker, and advocate for the poor.

The challenge of Lent is to negotiate these simultaneous truths -- and how to admit our own truth regarding which Jesus we prefer. Otherwise, all too often, Jesus ends up being trotted out and used to justify moral claims as if God were not a part of the picture.

A word about grammar may be useful here. The "I AM" statements in John are of two varieties: the absolute "I AM" statements in which there is no qualifier, and the "I AM" statements with a predicate nominative. And yet the point of both is to hold both together. Each time Jesus says, "I AM," the entirety of the "I AM" statements stands behind this revelation. And every time Jesus says, "I AM the bread of life, I AM the light of the world," the fullness of the absolute "I AM" statements stands behind this claim. When we keep this in mind, we begin to see that if we try to separate God and the Word made flesh, we have likely missed the point of Christianity altogether.

Consider the following quotation, circulating on Pinterest boards and throughout social media:

"I AM. Two of the most powerful words; for what you put after them shapes your reality."

This Lenten series helps us imagine that what Jesus puts after "I AM" in the Gospel of John shapes our reality.

Grace and peace, Pastor Bruce

Recipe of the Month Peanut Butter Kiss Cookies

About 3 dozen cookies

Ingredients

- 1 cup peanut butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 large egg
- 1 tsp vanilla
- 36 chocolate kisses

Directions

- Preheat oven to 350 degrees
- In a large bowl, mix peanut butter and sugar well.
- Add vanilla and egg, beat until thoroughly blended
- Roll into 1" balls and place 2" apart on ungreased cookie sheet
- Bake for 10-12 minutes. Tops of cookies should be slightly cracked
- Remove from oven and immediately place a kiss at the center of each cookie.
- Allow to remain in pan about 5 minutes before removing them.

In 1885 Washington's Birthday was established as a federal holiday to honor the first president on his actual birthday, February 22. In 1971 the Uniform Monday Holiday Act created more three-day week-ends. "President's Day" was created to honor all American presidents on the third Monday of February. Several states continue to have separate holidays for Washington, Lincoln, and others.

Valentine's Day

Wednesday, February 14

Lupercalia was one of the oldest Roman festivals and occurred on February 15. It honored Lupercus, the god of shepherds. The celebration also paid tribute to Faunus, the god of agriculture, and Romulus and Remus, founders of Rome who were cared for by a female wolf, or lupa.

In 496 CE the Emperor Gelasius replaced the popular pagan festival with a feast in honor of sainted Christian martyr Valentinus. (There were actually three Catholic saints named Valentinus.)

In the Middle Ages, a Valentine's Day legend grew in popularity. About 270 CE Emperor Claudius outlawed marriage for young men because he thought single men made better soldiers. Valentinus, a Roman priest, defied the order and secretly continued to perform marriages. He was executed on February 14th.

The association with romance was strengthened by the long-standing tradition in Northern Europe that February 14th marked the beginning of the birds' mating season.

Chaucer linked the engagement of King Richard II to Valentine's Day in a poem he wrote in 1381. The oldest known Valentine is a poem written by the Duke of Orleans in 1415. By the 1700s, exchanging Valentine cards and gifts was well established.

Valentine's Day was removed from the Catholic calendar in 1969, but it remains one of the most popular secular holidays around the world. In the U.S. Valentine's Day ranks number one in sales of candy and fresh flowers, 2/3 of which are red roses. For restaurants, it is second only to Mother's Day. Over half of single women surveyed said they would end a relationship if their boyfriends didn't give them a Valentine's Day gift!

President's Day Car Sales

Every President's Day weekend car sales surge by about 25 percent. Why does the third weekend in February create such a car-buying frenzy?

When Washington's Birthday became a national holiday in 1885, bicycling was the craze of the day. Bicycle dealers decided that, with most businesses closed, this was the day to roll out the new spring models. Washington's Birthday became 'Bicycle Day.' By the turn of the 20th century, motorcycles were the hot commodity and continued the tradition As the automobile took center stage, so did Washington's Birthday car sales. When Washington's Birthday became President's Day, always celebrated on the 3rd Monday of February, the one-day transportation deals of the past have become a weekend car sale extravaganza!
